Sooam Biotech Research Foundation is an organization focusing on research in biomedical engineering using cloning and transgenic technology. Sooam has collaborated with North-Eastern Federal University of Yakutsk, Russia since March 2012 on the Mammoth Restoration Project. Our collaboration has not only resulted in heightened intellectual exchange of the two institutions involved, but also contributed to development of scholar network between many international institutions. Experts in the Mammoth Museum of the Institute of Applied Ecology of the North have shown the highest level of competence, and Sooam has been very satisfied with the progress of the collaboration so far. Sooam hopes to continue this fruitful partnership for many years down the road.

Sincerely,
